Once everyone is at the assembly point you need to check the class register. This is to make sure everyone who is present is at the assembly point. Registers are very important because they let people know who is in a building at a certain time.

Do you think there are still people in the building? If so, you should tell the school fire safety officer, teacher or the emergency services as soon as you can.

In the event of an emergency, it is important to evacuate a scene immediately. You should remove yourself and others from danger as soon as possible. You should quickly and safely get to an assembly point.

Remember:

If there is smoke (get low and get out) by moving to the nearest exit.

Look at the picture below of a fireman crawling. This is the 'get low' technique. If you need to escape a fire, this technique helps you move below the smoke where the air is cleaner.
